Questions & Answers for Boeing employees

SECURITY

Q. What behavior does Boeing expect from employees who are picketing?

A. The company anticipates that any picketing will be conducted in a proper manner, but in case it is not, the company will take steps permitted by law to ensure that picketing is conducted peacefully and lawfully.

Q. Will the company reimburse employees for damage to their cars or personal property or for personal injury resulting from strike activity?

A. The company will handle claims on a case-by-case basis because the circumstances differ for each incident. Report incidents of damage or injury immediately to the Security business number at 206-655-8800 and ask to have an officer dispatched to complete an investigation and file a report. A report must be filed with Security as soon as possible after the incident occurs.
