

Mark E. Kronenberg
Vice President, Asia - Pacific
International Business Development
Integrated Defense Systems – St Louis MO
The Boeing Company

Mark Kronenberg is Vice President for International Business Development for Boeing Integrated Defense Systems (IDS) based in St Louis, Missouri. IDS is a $30.5 billion dollar business with capabilities in defense, intelligence and space. Mr. Kronenberg's specific area of responsibility for IDS business development is the Asia – Pacific region. The Asia – Pacific region represents the fastest growing international market for IDS products and systems.

Prior to his most recent assignment, Mr. Kronenberg led marketing and sales for the Middle East for IDS.

Mr. Kronenberg began his career at McDonnell Douglas in April 1988 and worked in their Legislative Liaison office until 1993. His areas of responsibility included foreign military sales and international trade. From that assignment, he moved to McDonnell Douglas International Operations and was responsible for government relations activities with a focus on Asia. In 1998, he was made Deputy to the Vice President for International Operations and managed government relations activities in support of commercial and military programs in the Washington office.

Prior to joining McDonnell Douglas in 1988, Mr. Kronenberg served as Legislative Director to Representative Beverly Byron (D-MD) from 1983-1988, and as Legislative Assistant to Representative Earl Hutto (D-FL) from 1980-1983.

He graduated from Temple University in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in 1978 with a Bachelor of Arts degree, and received a Masters in Public Administration from American University, Washington, D.C. in 1980. He and his wife, Sheila, have three children, Gina, Karen and Laura.
