JOHN WOJICK
Senior Vice President, Global Sales
Boeing Commercial Airplanes

John Wojick is senior vice president, Global Sales for Boeing Commercial Airplanes. Appointed to this position in August 2012, Wojick is responsible for the sales of commercial airplanes and related services to airlines and leasing customers in all markets worldwide.

Wojick has held several high-level positions within the Sales organization since 2002. He previously served as the vice president for North America Sales, which he assumed in February 2012. Prior to leading North America Sales, Wojick was the vice president of Asia Pacific and India Sales.

From October 2008 until 2010, Wojick served as vice president of Sales for Leasing and Asset Management, Commercial Airplanes. He also was responsible for Boeing Business Jets.

From 2002 to 2008, Wojick was vice president of Sales for Latin America and the Caribbean.

Previously, Wojick served as a Commercial Airplanes sales director and was responsible for Continental Airlines, Federal Express, National and several other U.S. airlines. From 1994 to 1996, Wojick led sales for used and VIP airplanes and was involved in the discussions that led to the launch of Boeing Business Jets.

Wojick joined Boeing in 1980 as an aerospace engineer and held a number of assignments in maintenance and systems training, flight operations engineering, internal audit and marketing.
Wojick graduated with honors from the University of Colorado in 1980 with a Bachelor of Science in aerospace engineering and earned his master of business administration from the University of Colorado in 1985.

The son of a U.S. Air Force and United Airlines pilot, Wojick was born in Riverside, Calif., and grew up in Wheaton, Ill. He lives in Seattle with his wife Beth and enjoys skiing, golf, hiking, biking (mountain and road) and scuba diving. Wojick also holds a private pilot's license.
